Instructions:

Step 1: Die cut Tag You're It out of watercolor paper. Stamp sentiment in lower left corner with Versafine Onyx inkpad as shown.

Step 2: Place the tag in the Misti and position the poinsettia partially off the tag leaving room to 'frame' the sentiment without stamping over it.

Step 3: Scribble watercolor pencil onto the lower portion of the petals as shown. Pull color from the scribbles out toward the ends of the petals with the water brush. Leave white space and vary the water color intensity. Fill in the green tendrils and flower centers with color.

Step 4: Scribble yellow along 3 sides of the tag and blend out with the water brush.

Step 5: To add paint splatters, pour a small amount of gold paint onto a slick surface (acetate, craft sheet, plastic plate, etc.) and drop a tiny amount of water into the paint to dilute it slightly. Using a dowel or solid object (even an acrylic block works!), rap the loaded paint brush against the dowel to create splatters. The larger the brush, the larger the splatters. Practice on scrap paper first to insure you have the right consistency for splattering. Allow to dry.

Step 5: Create gold splatters on a scrap piece. The dowel was held in my left hand while rapping the paint brush against it, which isn't shown.

Step 6: Arrange sequins in a pleasing pattern on the tag affixing them in place with Tombow Multi Glue. To finish the tag, punch a hole and add a length of ribbon.

Step 6: Add an uneven number of sequins
